Now there's a Bethel Village in cyberspace

http://www.nai.com WWW/bethel/homepage.html—the address doesn't exactly roll off the tongue, but that's where you'll find Bethel Village on the World Wide Web. The new "home page" offers a wealth of information on the Bethel area, and is quickly accessible from nearly anywhere in the world. Much of the copy for the Bethel page was written by Gould grad Kendra Hutchinson of Bethel. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

As the 21st century approaches, being 'on the map' increasingly means being 'on the Web,' and we are.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Organizations of all types -- businesses, states and cities, governmental agencies, political parties, educational institutions, even interest groups -- are rushing to set up their own "home pages" on the World Wide Web.

The Web (or WWW) is the fastest growing and most accessible facet of the Internet.

Each day, from computers located all over the planet, millions of people use the Web for finding information, establishing contacts, sometimes making purchases, often for just prowling aimlessly ("surfing") through areas of interest or curiosity.

Last month more than 6,000 of those people stopped over in Bethel, visiting the new cybersite developed by Dutch Dresser and Jason Chase.

Dresser is associate headmaster of Gould Academy. Chase is currently the sole employee of NetExpress, a fledgling Internet provider company set up by Dresser and David Hawkes, a retired Portland businessman and Gould Academy alumnus and trustee.

Net gain for local businesses

Dresser developed the educational Internet link-up now used by Gould Academy and the Bethel Datification Corporation. But that service is through the University of Maine and cannot be used for commercial purposes.

By contrast, NetExpress is a commercial link and can be used by any local business that wants to sign up -- either for simple Internet access or for its own home page.

"I wanted to extend to the business community the access we were able to create for the schools and private residents," he said.

But it goes beyond a simple matter of access. Dresser also hopes the new "connectivity" will spur types of economic development that would have been impossible in the past -- due to the long distances between Bethel and major commercial centers.

The Web page "epitomizes the notion that it no longer matters where you live," Dresser said.

The new service has already led one high-tech business to give Bethel a longer look.

David Bernard owns a software-development company in Vancouver, but he's also a native New Englander feeling a tug to return home.

Bernard was recently in town looking at property, but one of the qualities of Bethel that made it attractive -- its remoteness from urban centers -- was a potential drawback from a business point of view.

Realtor Mary Jo Kennett referred Bernard to Dresser, and the two had a long discussion about Bethel's high-tech options.

Bernard hasn't yet made any decisions yet about relocating, but he recently sent an e-mail message to Dresser, saying that for the first time since he left New England he felt all the pieces were in place for a return.

On the links

Bethel's Web page currently links directly to three other home pages: Sunday River Ski Resort, the Casablanca Movie Theater, and Gould Academy.

The Bethel home page also offers links providing more information on local "Hospitality" (shops, inns, food service workers, and

Some shorefront owners have sinking feeling

The water level at Round, South, and North ponds is lower than it has been in years, and some owners are worried about the long-term effects on their property. The ponds are owned by the Bethel Manufacturing Corporation, which plans to build a new dam and control water levels in the ponds.

get through the shallow water.

Blakney is also worried about long-term sediment build-up.

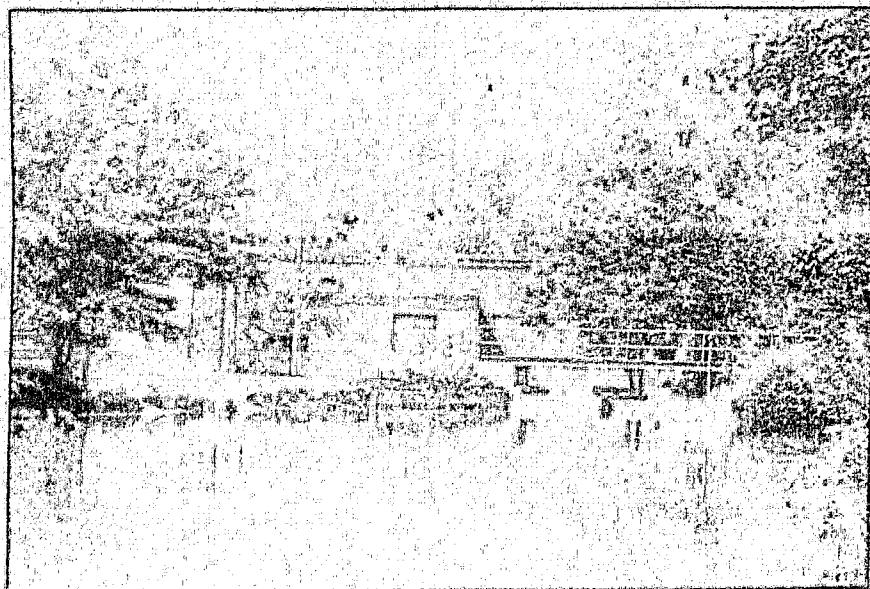

"With the low water, sun gets to the bottom plants more easily, and there's more growth. Then they decay over the next year, and the pond fills in with sediment more quickly," she said.

Levels down for several years

Blakney and president Nancy Willard of the Community Lakes Association both believe there has been a steady drop in the lake level over the past several years.

"We've had a lot of broken propeller blades in the past three years. We never had that before," said Blakney.

Willard said, "I've been hearing

Greenwood Petition seeks another vote on manager

Greenwood resident Sam Chittick planned to present a petition to selectmen last night to force reconsideration of the vote to hire a town manager.

Chittick collected 75 signatures, "and I could get another hundred easily. There was only one person on the fence about it. Everyone else wanted to sign," he said Friday.

The town voted 45-27 at the annual Town Meeting in March to go to the town manager form of government.

The issue resurfaced at a special Town Meeting on July 25. The majority of the two dozen citizens in attendance rejected selectmen's request for $3,000 to finance the switch to fill the position.

Chittick was among those questioning the original vote, saying he didn't think it was representative of town opinion.

"I'll probably be the bad guy to the minority, but not the majority," he said.

He said no one he had talked to while gathering signatures had indicated they had voted for the town manager.

Use volunteers, subcontracting? Chittick maintains there are enough retired people, like himself, to help out the selectmen in running town affairs. He has been a Greenwood resident for two and a half years. He said he had worked previously in the insurance business, and at one time owned a maintenance company.

"I also have some ideas for part-time professional help. We can subcontract, and not have to pay benefits. There are other town managers who would give advice to earn some extra money," he said.

Chittick also cited grant money as

Trust accepts Songo Pond easement

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Mahosue Land Trust has been granted a conservation easement on 40 acres of land bordering Songo Pond in Albany.

The easement was granted by the Nature Conservancy, a national conservation organization.

The conservancy owed the land since 1984 but recently sold it to a private buyer from New Hampshire.

The easement, signed shortly before the sale took place, will now limit the development that can take place on the parcel. Marcel Polak, executive director of Mahosue Land Trust said, "As a result of the easement people can continue to enjoy the scenic values of a largely undeveloped tract of land along a half mile of Songo Pond and 3,000 feet of Route 5. Limiting development will also help protect the water quality of Songo Pond."

This land was given to the Nature Conservancy by Marian Rich, who together with her late husband were long-term summer visitors to Songo Pond. Her intentions were for the Nature Conservancy to sell the property to benefit their other purchases of ecologically unique lands, and to maintain some restrictions against further development.

According to Polak, the Nature Conservancy approached the local land trust in 1992 to inquire if it would accept a conservation easement on the property prior to the Nature Conservancy selling it to a private buyer.

The land trust evaluated the property and determined that it had enough natural resource

School budget cut now has names attached to it

By ALISON ALOISIO

The trickle-down effect of the $500,000 SAD44 budget cut was evident at Monday night's School Board meeting.

Supt. Ron Jenkins put names with the jobs eliminated (or reduced) by the board's cuts, and made other recommendations for dealing with reduced funding.

The casualty list: Stephanie Swan, health teacher/coordinator (position eliminated); Cheryl Lord, business teacher (position eliminated); Claire Carver, math teacher (position reduced to half-time); Steven Keane, outdoor skills leadership challenge teacher (reassigned to teach health); Rodney Abbott, social studies teacher (position changed to one-half social studies, one-half chemical health coordinator); Paula Smith, Crescent Park librarian (position eliminated); Carol Littlehale, Andover part-time librarian (position eliminated); Mary Richardson, Andover fourth-grade teacher (laid off due to seniority of another teacher).

A French teacher's position at the high school was also eliminated. Ann Burg, the teacher, had already resigned.

Administrators still have to decide on another half of a Telstar educational technician position to cut.

Supt. Ron Jenkins said also that all bus drivers would lose some pay as a result of cutting late bus routes to a single, limited run.

Half of the funding for contracted art was cut, along with all monies for the gifted and talented program.

"I take great offense to the idea that we could cut without affecting students and programs. I stand by my original statement (at the district budget meeting) -- it's affected kids every day since then. The master schedule at Telstar has changed. Every student schedule is now wrong," he said.

Hot lunch prices up

The board approved an increase in elementary cafeteria food prices, partly as a result of budget cuts to the food service. Other factors were employee pay increases and an increase in food prices.

Elementary hot lunches will go from $1.25 to $1.50; breakfast from $.50 to $.75; and milk from .30 to .35. Telstar lunches will remain the same at $1.70.

The board also voted to extend Jenkins' contract to June of 1997 and give him a 2-percent raise next year. His salary will increase from $56,700 to $57,834, with benefits going from $5,000 to $5,500.

Jenkins also recommended to the board that $40,000, preserved from an original $150,000 for computer upgrades, be used to purchase about two dozen computers for the middle school.

He said the computers would be free-standing stations -- not networked, but "networkable" eventually. Four to six computers would be connected to the Internet.

AFSME back to bargaining table In another budget-related discussion, Chairman Merton Brown said he had been informed verbally by the AFSME union (bus drivers, food service workers, and

NEED SCHOOL BUDGET DIALOGUE

To the Editor:

The recent SAD44 District Budget Meeting, as well as information and events leading up to the meeting, left me with some concerns and thoughts about the future course of public education in the district.

Firstly, the information distributed to the public to make an informed decision. The Spring Issue 1994 of "The Satellite" is a good example of an informative district report. It had statistics regarding number of pupils by grades, schools and towns. The state valuation of the district towns that is the basis for the distribution of school costs is included and other statistics which could be compared with information from district reports from prior years. Interesting stories of student activities as well as examples of students' work were included. We needed to see that kind of presentation again. The district handouts for the recent Budget Meeting focused on costs. That -- along with a 20 percent increase in the local share -- resulted in the public focusing on costs rather than accomplishments. Newspaper stories and graphs (unadjusted for inflation) further confused our understanding of the tax impact on the towns.

Secondly, I have a question on the role of the district directors. It was apparent that not all of the district directors were supporting the budget based on the directors' vote and a letter to the editor in The Citizen. I believe that the directors should make every effort to achieve a unanimous vote before sending the budget for district approval. The directors are elected by voters to represent them and given responsibility for the education of our children and grandchildren. The District Budget must be one they can fully support.

Thirdly, the impact of the discussion on the morale of the teaching staff. Teachers need to know that the community is supportive of their efforts. The district staff must have been discouraged by some of the comments at the district meeting. (Democracy has its rough edges.) We entrust the education of our children to the teachers. What more honorable profession can there be?

Finally, what do we need to do to avoid frustration next year? Parents, grandparents, and others need to keep informed and involved with parent-teacher organizations and to let their directors know what programs they are willing to support. There is no indication that it will be any easier to fund the school budget in 1996. We have seen what programs have been cut in 1995. What programs do we have to add or delete in 1996-97? Let's start the dialogue.

BUS DRIVER WAS NOT FIRED

To the Editor:

I would like to clarify a rumor that I have been fired because I spoke at the School Board meeting.

Because of the necessary cuts to the budget, my run has been combined with some of the other bus runs. I am retiring in December, and I was hoping to have my run for the next four months. I have been offered two alternatives, so I am not without a job.

I would like to say "Thank You" to all of my students. My bus is someone else's gain. I will miss you all, and I wish you a good year and God Bless. You made my run a pleasure and I hope you will treat your new driver as well as you have me.

SUDBURY CANADA DAYS THANKS

To the Editor:

Thank you for allowing me to pay tribute to everyone who made the 16th annual Sudbury Canada Days such a success, despite the rain that we have experienced sometime during the weekend ever since the event was begun in 1980. The Bethel Historical Society is very fortunate to have so many dedicated members who help make this community heritage festival possible each year by donations of food, talent, money, flowers and services. We are also fortunate that so many others not connected with the organization also volunteer so much time and effort as well. All of these contributions are deeply appreciated and help to make the event one of the highlights of summer in Bethel.

From the

Bethel Town Office

Upon citizen request, the board of selectmen has agreed to review the Traffic Ordinance. It was presented to the board that skateboarding and roller-blading should be treated no differently than bicycling. Currently, these activities are restricted on public roads in the village.

It was suggested that the Recreation Committee, Police Department and the town's insurance company be involved to offer facts and ideas. The board of selectmen has the authority to change the traffic ordinance. This would be authorized through a public hearing (to be scheduled at a later date).

Construction on the streets of Mechanic and Summer will begin any time now. Both of these projects are slated to be completed by fall.

Speaking of construction, folks probably have noticed that our water trough has been relocated on the common. The Rotary Club was responsible for this. Please joins us in thanking them for their efforts and commitment to our community.

pubs, restaurants, B&Bs etc.), "Recreation," "Historical Information," "Town Government," "Bethel Connectivity," and an "Interactive Map" (some of these links are still under construction).

NetExpress also has its own home page, with a number of other businesses either signed on or coming on board soon.

The American Automobile Association of Maine has also signed up, and the Maine Department of Labor wants to link up, and perhaps set up a computer kiosk somewhere in the village. The kiosk would feature two-screen access to economic and jobs information, but it would also offer a link to the Bethel Home Page.

And each of these home-page links is really a link to the world.

For example, most major new movies now have their own home pages, so someone contemplating catching a film at the Casablanca can start at the Bethel home page, where they are only two or three clicks from the studio home page in California.

Once at the movie home page, they'll find a variety of information (promotional material, of course). Recent movie home-page offerings have included action scenes from "Waterworld" and an interactive game based for the movie "Virtuosity."

For the more serious minded, the Bethel home page also offers a link to the Gould Academy home page. Once there, the user can access all the major Web search engines, which provide easy access to a worldwide accumulation of information on virtually any topic you can think of -- and many you probably would never have thought of.

Think local

But however far the Web reaches into global cyberspace, it is local content that will ultimately make or break the Bethel home page.

Dresser hopes to bring on board as many area businesses as possible. The Cameron House or the Bethel Inn will probably be the next to come on line.

John Bayerlein, co-owner of the local B&B, is enthusiastic about the Web's potential.

"We believe that the World Wide Web of the Internet is the medium of the 21st century because it is successful at both ends of the advertising and information spectrum," Bayerlein said.

"For the advertiser it allows unlimited access to markets world wide for minimal cost. Potential consumers can browse your brochure and advertisement from the comfort of their home or workplace and respond within seconds with orders, reservations or requests for additional information."

"For the consumer it allows almost unlimited market selection of goods and services. Orders, reservations, product information, and selected from literally 'around the world' can make for a more educated consumer and a satisfied customer."

"And," he said, "because of the speed and convenience, it can free valuable time for more important things like family."

Other hospitality and tourism business are expected to sign up shortly, Dresser said.

The rates are affordable. NetExpress charges $150 to develop a home page, and $12.50 a month to keep it on the Web.

Connections are everything in this new world -- to be effective a home page must be linked to as many major sites as possible. Theoretically, once on the Web you can navigate from any one site to any other site, but the more direct the link, and the more widely connected your home page, the better.

Forging those connections is part of Jason Chase's job.

A native of Laconia, N.H. Chase studied computer science for three years at the University of Maine, then took a break to travel for a while.

At one point he worked on a Web-page project in Atlanta, then last year he moved to Bethel. Like Bernard, he wanted to be back in New England, but also to have high speed Internet access.

At a meeting of the Bethel Datafication Corporation, he struck up a conversation with Dresser, and the idea of NetExpress began to take shape.

Chase has recently completed linking the Bethel home page to a number of Web databases, including the popular Yahoo site in California.

Even before these links were established, however, response to the Bethel Home Page was encouraging -- as demonstrated by the more than 6,000 people who dropped in electronically last month to see what's up in the Bethel area.

Some of the hits can be traced, Chase said, and many of them came from the western part of the country.

Dresser acknowledges that Sunday River Ski Resort is no doubt part of the reason why the Bethel home page gets so many hits -- skiers who reach the Sunday River home page by other electronic routes (such as Yahoo) can just click to the Bethel page.

Surveys of Internet users show them as a group to be affluent and well educated (and an excellent market segment), but you don't have to be a computer scientist to surf the Web. While the Internet can be technically daunting, the Web is simplicity itself to use.

The World Wide Web sits atop the Internet in much the same way that Windows sits atop DOS. The Web and Windows make their underlying systems much more user friendly, largely by eliminating the need to master arcane commands.

If you can point and click, you can surf the Web.

Dresser and Chase are betting that very soon hundreds of people a day will be pointing and clicking their way to Bethel. And an increasing number of local businesses are betting that many of those cyber-visitors will ultimately want a taste of the real thing.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that on Sunday, Aug. 20, Robert Sargent, grandson of photographer R. Harvey Sargent, will be present at a lecture and reception highlighting the Bethel Historical Society's summer exhibit, "China: Exploring the Interior, 1903-04."

The lecture will take place in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House and honors the memory of a Bethel born missionary in China, Annie Gould, who was killed during the Boxer Rebellion in 1900. Those wishing to attend should gather at Riverside Cemetery at 2 p.m. in front of the marker to Annie Gould, who was born in the Mayville section of Bethel in 1867, for some brief remarks about her life and death.

Following this, the group will return to the Dr. Moses Mason House to hear University of Southern Maine Chinese history specialist Craig Dietrich speak on China, the Boxer Rebellion and Annie Gould. Professor Dietrich holds a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and is the author of a history of revolutionary China published by Oxford University Press. A reception will follow Dr. Dietrich's lecture.

Anyone interested in attending the lecture and reception is cordially invited to do so. There is no admission charge. This exhibit, lecture, and reception are part of the society's educational and cultural programming. For further information, please call the society office at 824-2908 or toll free, 1-800-824-2910.

Property dispute leads to shooting

ANDOVER--Vernon Moulton, 59, has been released on $10,000 bail after being charged with shooting a father and son in a property dispute last Thursday evening, according to Oxford County Sheriff's detective Jim Mielon. The victims were identified as Dwight Hutchins, 49, of the Upton Road in Andover, and his son, Paul Hutchins, 26, of the Cross Road. They were treated for birdshot wounds to the neck, shoulder, and abdomen, and released from Rumford Community Hospital. The shooting occurred as the two men were working on a well on Paul Hutchins' property next to Moulton's. A dispute arose over a verbal agreement on the use of a right of way on Moulton's land. Mielon said the dispute had been going on for at least two days. The incident is still under investigation.

PARIS--Two cases of rabies were reported in the area last week. A skunk in Ousfield and a raccoon in Bridgton were confirmed as having the fatal disease by the Health and Environmental Testing Laboratory in Augusta. The skunk attacked a dog after first going for the dog's owner, Mark Grondin. Grondin shot the skunk, and the dog was given a rabies booster shot. In Bridgton, a husky owned by veterinarian Dr. Scott Johnson fought with and killed a raccoon. The dog had just received a booster shot two weeks earlier, but will be observed for 45 days.

Woodstock mil rate holds steady

WOODSTOCK--This year's tax rate has been set at 18.82 mills -- the same as last year. Selectmen were able to keep the rate steady because of a cut in what had been a proposed $7.4 million SAD44 school budget. The town will see a $10,000 increase over what selectmen had anticipated for this year's school assessment, according to town manager Vern Maxfield. This year's real estate valuation is $42,115,000 compared to last year's figure of $41,066,000. Tax bills are expected to go out in about a week.

Woodstock septic problem fixed

WOODSTOCK--The mobile home of Stanley and Irene Pratt now has a septic system, town manager Vern Maxfield said last week. The Pratts had lived in the home off and on since late 1993. Downhill neighbor Floyd Hurd complained during that time that the situation was unsanitary. The system installation was financed by a low-interest loan through Community Concepts of South Paris.

School buses to have cameras

RUMFORD--SAD43 students who misbehave on the bus may have their actions caught on video. Seven of the district's 15 buses will be equipped with black boxes, which at different times will house a video camera. SAD43 has purchased a $1,000 video camera, which will be circulated randomly among the buses. Students will not necessarily know when they are being monitored. Transportation supervisor Ron Deegan said the camera will help identify bus offenders, and will also monitor the performance of bus drivers. All buses will eventually be equipped with the boxes.

Fire officials discuss complaints

OXFORD--Fire department officers have begun discussions to address a six-page list of complaints submitted by firefighters. Selectmen requested the process after 15 firefighters threatened to resign. The firemen had complained of mismanagement and inadequate safety practices. The dispute followed chief Fred Knightly's order on July 16 to extinguish a large bonfire at Oxford Plains Speedway. A near riot among 200-300 campers resulted, with two firefighters injured. The firefighters agreed to delay any action until after the officials deal with their complaints.

Suffering from Net addiction?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.--Daryl Robbins, a computer repair school student, says he could stay on the Internet all day and not get bored. He apparently isn't alone. Industry experts are calling it "Internet addiction." It "sounds pretty evil, but you might become addicted to using that medium versus whatever you had before -- that is, hooking it down to the library or using the phone," said John Irwin, spokesman for CompuServe's Internet division. "Sometimes you find some great stuff, sometimes you blow a couple of hours," Larry Rosen, a research psychologist, says it's only bad if someone spends a lot of time on it in lieu of social contact. "What we see, particularly now, is a lot of people who spend a lot of time on the Internet instead of having talks with their family, playing with their kids, doing their job," he said. An estimated 15 million people worldwide regularly use the Internet, according to the Free Software Foundation of Cambridge. Some observers say that people now spend so much time on the Internet because it's new. As the novelty wears off, they say, so will the obsession.

Sudden blow in sports can be fatal

BOSTON--Doctors investigating rare sports injuries have found children may die from cardiac arrest if struck in the chest during games. Most of the 25 accidents identified involved being hit by baseballs. "The most common scenario involved a batter being struck in the mid-chest by a pitched ball, thrown with a velocity judged by witnesses not to be unusual for the game," said an article in the New England Journal of Medicine. Instances included a 3-year-old boy hit by a ball batted by a 6-year-old brother about 20 feet away; a 6-year-old boy hit by a ball tossed 85 feet by his mother in a 45-degree angle; and a 12-year-old boy hit by a baseball hurled by a pitching machine. Other deaths resulted from a hockey check and a karate chop. Dr. N.A. Mark Estes III of Tufts Medical School recommends investigating chest protectors and other safety equipment for young athletes.

Affordable housing loans available

AUGUSTA--The Maine State Housing Authority is offering $1 million in subsidy funds and $10 million of its housing bond proceeds to develop up to 250 additional affordable apartments in Maine, acting MSHA development director Carol Dudley said. The funds are available at either 6.75 percent or 8.75 percent interest, depending on whether the developer uses taxable or tax-exempt financing. Dudley said the program's focus is on rehabilitating existing, substandard rental housing. Developers who want to use the 6.75 percent loans are restricted to acquisition and rehab of properties.

More bees and hornets?

LEWISTON--Favorable weather conditions are likely responsible for an apparent increase in the bee and wasp population this summer. Some doctors have reported more calls about stings, while some pest management specialists have noted an increase, particularly in yellow jackets. The specialists said the mild winter and dry summer have allowed more ground nests to survive. Other doctors and pest companies, however, say they have not noticed a difference over last year.

New theatre in Farmington

FARMINGTON--A movie house designed after 19th century rural train depots will soon be coming to Front Street. A five-screen theatre will be built on the site of an old narrow gauge railroad yard. The design will feature an ell and overhang flanking each side of the building. The theatre will be called Narrow Gauge Cinemas. Farmington's present State Theatre, owned by the builder of the new movie house, will be closed when the new theatre opens in September.

From the Bethel Police log:

Resident says firefighter driving too fast

At 10:30 p.m. on August 8 a Middle Intervale Road resident reported a member of the Bethel Fire Department was traveling at a very high rate of speed in a very unsafe location. The firefighter was responding to a minor fire call. The complainant said he had confronted him at the fire station, and the fireman said he knew he was wrong, but offered no solution. The police officer also noted that shortly after the fire tone, he had observed another department member, operating with a red dash light, traveling 74 m.p.h. in a 50 m.p.h. zone. Police said the problem has been addressed in the past. The case was to be turned over to the police chief.

Also on August 8

At 1:33 a.m. police observed a jeep with no tail lights traveling south on Route 2 near Bethel Auto. The officer tried to stop it, but it eluded him by turning onto the Annis Road. He could not see the vehicle due to the fog and lack of lights. It was later located behind a residence. A K-9 unit was called to track the subject, but the dog lost the track at the river. A wrecker was called. At 8:30 a.m. a Bethel resident, who police said owned the vehicle, called to report it had been stolen. The owner said he had not driven it since 5 p.m. the day before. He denied driving it during the time in question.

Thursday, August 10

At 11:30 a.m. a Greenwood resident reported she had found several player piano rolls, and anyone missing them should call 824-2444.

At 9:40 p.m. a Rumford Center resident flagged down police and pointed out two tractor trailers which he said were driving to endanger on Route 2 near the state line. Police stopped the vehicles, and told the drivers a state trooper would be in contact with them regarding the complaint. Both parties then departed the scene.

Friday, August 11

At 7:47 p.m. a Bethel Inn employee reported a guest had had an air purifier stolen from his room. Police spoke with the guest, who said it had been taken while the room was unoccupied. The next day police spoke with the employee, who said it had been recovered. Apparently the friend of the guest had taken it as a joke.

Saturday, August 12

At 11:20 p.m. police assisted the Oxford County Sheriff's Department at the Locke Mills legion hall for a reported fight involving 10 to 12 subjects.

Sunday, August 13

At 2:10 a.m. a Main Street resident reported two people carrying baseball bats had assaulted someone. He said the two had thrown the person to the ground, and one had struck him in the ribs with a bat. The other then kicked him while he was on the ground. The two subjects then fled. The complainant said the assaulted person appeared to have suffered one or more broken ribs, but he refused medical treatment. The incident was apparently a continuation from the legion hall incident. One of the alleged assailants had accused the victim of assaulting him.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

Tips from the Community Lakes Association

Did you know?

That there is a "Water Safety Zone" within 200 feet of any shore on our lakes and ponds. Boats are required to operate at "Headway Speed" within this water safety zone. Headway speed is a minimum wake speed just fast enough to maintain steerage of the vessel. The only exception to the rule is while boats are picking up or dropping off water skiers. It should also be noted that these rules apply to "Personal Watercraft."

a possible source for funding various services.

While the figure of $22,000 a year for salary and benefits has been discussed as the initial investment in a manager, Chittick is worried it would quickly go to much more than that with benefits and raises. "Once it's in there, I think we're stuck," he said.

Selectmen would set meeting

Chair Marie Bartlett said Monday that even if the petition was received, selectmen would continue with the search process, at least for the time being.

"We would continue on until a vote is taken," she said.

She said selectmen are currently considering the wording of an ad for the manager.

Bartlett said it would be the selectmen's choice whether to hold a special Town Meeting or wait until next year's regular Town Meeting to reconsider the vote.

"A special meeting is kind of taboo here -- people tend to shy away from it. I think there's a better representation at a regular Town Meeting," she said.

Bartlett said if selectmen chose to wait until March, any prospective candidates would have to be told the whole issue was up for reconsideration.

values, with limited development allowed, to warrant acceptance of the easement, Polak said.

According to the terms of the easement, no further development is to take place on the lake-front side, although the owner may maintain and even replace the existing gazebo/boathouse. The upland side of the property may be subdivided once.

Commercial use of the property is not allowed, but home-based businesses, including operating a bed and breakfast, are allowed. Commercial forestry is allowed pursuant to a forest management plan prepared by a forester and approved by Mahoosuc Land Trust.

The land trust is now responsible for monitoring the property in perpetuity, to ensure that the present owner and all future owners adhere to the terms of the easement.

Along with the easement, the Nature Conservancy endowed a stewardship fund for Mahoosuc Land Trust to use for short- and long-term management of the property.

Anyone interested in a free consultation about conservation options is asked to call the Mahoosuc Land Trust at 824-3806.

from people for a couple of years at least, who are concerned about the low water."

Long-time resident Maggie Ring agreed, saying while some of this year's low water may be partly due to dry weather, neighboring Twitchell Pond is obviously at higher levels.

Twitchell is not connected to the other ponds.

Blakney and others took their concerns to town selectmen at last week's selectmen's meeting. Chair Marie Bartlett called plant manager Bob Betz. She said Betz told her the company feels the dam does not leak.

Bartlett said Monday she is now referring concerned residents directly to Gilbert Manufacturing to discuss the issue.

Gilbert to meet with landowners

Contacted Monday, owner Duane Gilbert said, "The dam is not in a condition where any leakage is of any significance. The gate is not fully closed. It's in a position where we can't go any further without shutting the water off. There may be other seepage, but it's of no significance."

Gilbert said the water going through the dam goes into the Alder River and eventually the Androscoggin. He said some water needs to go through for fish fry in the Alder River.

He said he would meet with landowners "to see what we can work out together. I'm not sure what we can offer them, but I'm more than happy to work with them." Blakney said she was hopeful that property owners and Gilbert could work together on the problem.

DEP's jurisdiction

In cases where a leaking dam does cause a drop in water level, Maine's Department of Environmental Protection has little immediate power. Spokesman Dana Murch said in such situations DEP strongly urges a solution be found locally, among the parties concerned.

"There is no law on the books that requires dam owners maintain their dams, although DEP does have the authority to set water levels upon petition (from landowners, for example)."

Murch said that the process is a lengthy one, with DEP's only ultimate option being to take non-conforming dam owners to court.

"That's why we encourage people to work it out locally. Ideally, dams should be owned by the people who benefit from them."

"No one should expect someone to maintain a dam if it has no benefit to them," he said.

Murch said his records show the dam, built in 1870, is no longer used to generate hydro power.

Gilbert said the dam provides service water for the company -- for the sprinklers and the boiler, for example.

DEP guidelines do state that towns have the authority to enact a local water level control ordinance.

custodians) that the bargaining unit was willing to go back to the negotiating table if the other two units (teachers and administrators) would do the same.

Fourth-grade MEA's strong Crescent Park principal David Murphy gave a brief presentation on fourth-grade MEA test results. He said scores had improved over last year's.

"As a whole, we did quite well with the MEA results. Even though the test changed dramatically, the comparisons are still valid," he said.

The test was changed this past year to an entirely open-ended question format, eliminating multiple-choice type questions used in the past.

In other business, the board approved a municipal assessment of $4,091,142 for the FY'96 school budget.

John McCarthy was approved as interim special education director, replacing Ann Holt (on leave of absence). Kay Larson was approved as an interim adult education guidance counselor, replacing Merrill Bittner (on sabbatical).

Absent from the meeting were directors Deborah Dohrmann of Bethel, Susan Gordon of Greenwood, and Martin Hinkle of Newry.

BETHEL ANNIHILATES LOVELL 8 TO 1

Rodney Allows Three Hits and Strikes Out Twelve

Sunday, Bethel got sweet revenge on Lovell for the defeat suffered at her hands on July 21st. The game would have been a shutout but for an unfortunate error in the ninth. Southern, the only Lovell man who could solve Bett's delivery at all, was safe on Howe's error and went all the way to third. The next man had two strikes on him before he managed to speak out the third hit off Rodney to score the Bowdoin athlete.

Bethel's first scores came in the third. Rex flew out to the third baseman. Rodney got a single and Mavard was safe on an error. Both men scored on Gill's hit after Rodney had fanned.

The fourth was the death blow to whatever hopes Lovell had of making another victory. At our expense. After Rodney had been the man of the moment, Scott and Howe made excusable error by Howe. Only three hits were made off his deceptive delivery and two of those before the fifth. Lovell had the Bridgton Pine Tree League infield but it did not look as good as the local inner defense. Two errors were made, one by Roger and the other by Howe. Gill, Robertson, and White led with the stick with every man on the team making a hit except Scott and Rex.

Planners make canopy call

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A canopy is a "building," the Bethel Planning Board decided last week.

Canopies are referred to but not defined in the town's new sign ordinance, and the uncertainty as to how they should be treated was already affecting two matters before the planning board: signs for the Subway franchise at Big Bob's on Route 2 and the renovation of the Big Apple on Railroad Street.

Board chairman Frank Vogt proposed that henceforth canopies be considered to be buildings, since they do meet the definition of buildings contained in the town's Site Plan Review Ordinance.

"It's critically important that we be consistent," Vogt told the board.

The members agreed without demur. They then went on to apply that definition to the two cases before them.

They ruled unanimously that because the canopy at Big Bob's was part of the building, a second Subway sign could be placed there.

The first Subway sign, a 4-by-8-foot internally illuminated sign, will be placed under the three other 32-square-foot signs stacked by the roadway. (The first sign was approved prior to adoption of the town's new sign ordinance. Had it been subject to the ordinance, it would have been limited to 10 square feet in area.)

The board also agreed unanimously that the canopy for the renovated Big Apple must be considered as part of the building, hence it would require a variance if it is to be placed where the plans currently call for -- to within eight feet of the street.

That variance was approved, also unanimously, as was the site plan application for the project.

Planner Don Feeney commented that even with the variance (the ordinance calls for a 30-foot setback), the new parking and traffic arrangement at the Big Apple will be safer than the current arrangement.

Violation stalls Brewery plan

Citing concerns over an outstanding fire-safety violation at the Sunday River Brewery, the board declined last week to take up an application for a small (less than 1,000-square-foot) retail building on that property.

"The state (Fire Marshal's Office) won't approve it until the violation is cleared," Bethel Fire Chief Jim Young told the board.

The violation involves the lack of acceptable egress from the brewing area, according to Han Trupp, general manager of the operation.

Trupp told the board that he planned to submit to the Fire Marshal's Office plans for both the retail building and a correction of the egress situation.

Planner Francis Dumont criticized the way in which the Brewery management had dealt with the violation.

The lack of egress was a public-safety issue, he told Trupp, "but you didn't move on the violation until you wanted to build (the new building)."

The board members agreed to table the matter until the fire marshal approves plans for correcting the violation.

In other business last week, the board approved plans for the Emerald Florist on Lower Main Street (in the same building with Skidder's Deli) and for second floor office space in the Bottle & Bag.

MOOSE RACKS

were among the items on display at the 18th annual New England Trappers Convention, held on Neil Olson's property on the East Bethel Road. Bill Harmon of Rumford is pictured here with racks that had been shed by moose. "Moose racks are the fastest growing tissue in the animal world, in our part of the country," Harmon said. He started collecting racks seriously after giving up beaver trapping several years ago. "The price of beaver got so low I stopped trapping -- I felt like I was destroying something for nothing," he said.

A very successful History Day was observed on Saturday at the Woodstock Historical Society building when well over 100 people were noted. Many fine exhibits were shown and many crafters were busy at their tables. Food, plants and flea market articles were sold, as well as historical items. Evelyn Bean, president, was general chairman and members assisted her; they all did a fine job. Thanks to all who worked and those who attended. Barbara Hathaway has given two pair of glasses to the society. Barbara Rowell Kirkpatrick of Augusta was guest of Evelyn T.

Bean on Friday and Saturday, and both attended the Stephens High School Super Reunion in Rumford. Those attending the retirement party for Francis Hoyt from the Bryant Pond area were Kenneth and Alice Hoyt, Ralph and Joyce Hoyt, Donald and Andrea Hoyt, James Hoyt and Lauretta Sanborn, Eric and Farrah Hoyt and Joshua, and Beatrice Farnum.

Franklin Grange 124 held Music and Talent Night on Monday, Aug. 7. Program: welcome by Richard Felt, master; the Bible was opened and the flag presented; the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung and a prayer was given by the chaplain; opening thought, "Gratitude takes three forms: a feeling in the heart, expression in words and giving in

by Colista Morgan
"There is beauty all around us/Anywhere that we may be/From the mountains to the valleys/From the desert to the sea/Every sight and sound can teach us/It has something good to give/Making this a world of promise/And each day a joy to live."

The day had been beautiful. It was clear and bright during the morning with just a bit of mist over the pond, early. It burned away and the sky turned to a lovely blue. There was a little rustle of leaves, soft and gentle. The pond water danced and sparkled.

As the summer ages, the fields change and take on a new grace. Every nook is lavished with Queen Ann's Lace, the Royal Cindrella, a flower with a regal name. Each patterned bloom a study in delight, a lace-work masterpiece left on display. In any mixed bouquet it owns a place; and worthy is the by-name "Queen Ann's Lace."

At one time a crown of clouds floated just above the mountain tops in the west.

It is well to view the world sometimes just to see the beauty such as the clouds, the butterflies, the lacy ferns and the trees.

Beauty is silent.
Find it. Enjoy it.

My age changed last Friday. I was well remembered, for I had 40 cards, no two alike, and one was from a girl who came to visit me. Her card was one she had made. A lovely thing.

I went to Ann's to have supper with the family. There I received lovely gifts, one of which was made by Mary, age 12. It was a clever mouse house she had made in ceramic class.

Eleanor Inman hasn't returned to work yet. But she is better.

Ann and I were the only ones at the farm for dinner on Sunday. It seemed strange to have four at the table when usually there are eight, ten or twelve.

I had many callers this week.

West Paris

Stan and Maxine Cram and Vance and Connie Bacon were camping at Winslow

Memorial Park in Freeport this past weekend.

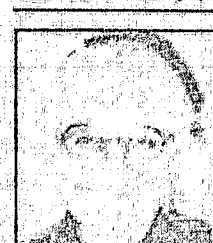

Owen and Donna Melville of Woodland spent the past week with her father, Ivan Proctor and brother, Ivan, Jr. They visited with other relatives and friends. Son, Dennis Melville, was also there from last Tuesday to Thursday.

Audrey Inman enjoyed being at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond last week.

Vernon and Waller Inman, Jr. have been spending some time with their aunt Linda Lawton on Twitchell Pond.

West Paris Historical Society will meet on Monday, Aug. 21 for a picnic meeting at the hall at 5:30 p.m. Transportation will be provided for whoever needs to go to the site of the so-called Indian corn grinding hole in the ledge. For more information you may call 674-2295.

Canton. They made several stops along the way.

Glen Olson and daughters Auburn and Kenda of Gladstone, Mich., left for home on Aug. 9. They had been visiting Melvin and Shirley Olson for a week. While they were there, Lori Jewell of Norway hosted a birthday party for Kenda. Melvin and Shirley Olson, Chris Olson and sons Kane and Karl, and Bobby and Lori Jewell and daughters Kelsey and Charlie attended the party.

Jack and Lucy Nordahl, with Bob and Lida Iles were at Moosehead Lake for a week. They rented a houseboat and toured the lake. Lucy says they had a lovely time on the lake.

Mary Bean had a surprise 60th birthday party, hosted by her three children and spouses, Peter and Susie Bean, Stephen and Pam Wojtylski and John and Penny Kiltredge, at John and Penny's home on Aug. 5. Her co-workers, neighborhood friends and family were all invited. Mary said about 50 people came to wish her Happy Birthday. All the refreshments were home-cooked.

Kelly and Taleah Vascik took a one-week vacation to Pensacola, Fla. to visit family. While there, they experienced the devastation of Hurricane Erin and attended the christening of Kelly and Mike's godson, Jacob Vascik of Milton, Fla. Mike and Natasha Vascik also took a one-week vacation to Pennsylvania to visit family and had a wonderful time.

bought himself a new (used) car. Congratulations, Jay! Take good care of it.

Shane Billings reports he is getting ready slowly for college.

Norma and Rob Davis were hosts of the Bryant Pond Baptist Church Sunday School picnic on Friday night, Aug. 4. There was a good attendance and they all enjoyed games, hamburgers and hot dogs.

Scott Billings made a brief visit with Lee Billings on Monday afternoon.

We all wish Winola Billings a speedy recovery after her brief stay in the hospital.

Linda Tyler came over from Dixfield on Saturday and visited with the Silvers and took Emma Billings to Bethel.

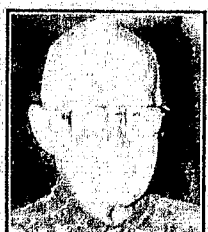

The Silvers attended the Bryant Pond Historical Society flea market and open house on Saturday, Aug. 5. We had a tour by Larry Billings and saw many nice things. We should support them for trying to preserve our history.

Herschel Abbott had his fields around his pond mowed this last week and it looks very nice.

We have had some cool nights lately and it seems good to be able to sleep comfortably.

Norma Davis took Kara Jacques and her sister Allison school shopping in South Paris on Tuesday. That evening, Rob, Norma and the girls went to Haverinens in South Paris and got some blueberries. Then they stopped at Walter Cornell's and Doris Maxim's and picked some blackberries. I guess it is that time of year.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates
Howdy, folks. This is Tuesday morning, the eighth day of August, and it is on the cool side, as was yesterday morning. I guess the powers above just want to remind us that cooler weather will be coming again before we realize it. Last Tuesday was very hot and humid, but hopefully it will be better today.

Last Monday started out with Peggy having to take her car to Northeast Tire Company to have a new power steering pump installed. They told her it would take nearly three hours to do the job, so I went along with the Volkswagen and brought her home. While Peggy was home waiting for the car to be repaired, she spent some time painting our back stairway, and now it looks much better.

Tuesday evening, we attended Oxford Pomona Grange but didn't have to go far, as it was held at West Paris Grange Hall. The attendance was just fair due to the hot weather. We enjoyed a very nice supper before the meeting. The meeting went quite nicely and our lecturer had a real good program. Installation of the officers for the coming year will be held at Frederick Robie Grange in Otisfield on Sept. 5. I hope that all officers will be there to be installed.

On Wednesday, I spent much time in the gardens and Peggy mowed the lawns and did other jobs.

Thursday morning, we went to Bryant Pond, where we helped serve dinner to the Woodstock Senior Citizens.

Thursday evening, we attended West Paris Grange. This meeting honored our Grange paper, The Maine Granger, and our State Grange master, Clyde Berry. Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee were there, also, as Myrtle is the leading saleslady of advertising for the paper. A nice program was enjoyed by all.

We visited Lawrence Merrill at the Norway hospital on Friday afternoon. He was feeling some better, and was hoping to leave the hospital on Saturday, but the doctors decided to keep him a little longer. His brother, Ralph, called on us earlier in the day.

Peggy attended the West Paris dance Saturday evening. She can dance with anybody and always has a good time.

As the rains had apparently stopped Sunday morning, we decided to visit Myrna and Bernard White at their camp on Thompson Lake. Peggy took along a large casserole of baked beans and some rolls to go with them. It stayed cloudy and cool, but we ended up staying for both dinner and supper before returning home.

The Whites' camp goes up for auction on Aug. 30, and they are holding open house on Aug. 12 and Aug. 19. They will be leaving for their winter home in Arizona about the middle of September.

On our way home from our visit, we visited Lawrence Merrill at the hospital.

Marsha Baxter and friend Tony Savage of Oxford spent Wednesday visiting at the Lovejoys.

Hope Lovejoy is selling blueberries at the Haverinens Farm on King Hill.

Tammy Farnum of Bryant Pond and her daughter Angela visited the Raymond Macks one day last week. Several people have been at the Lovejoy home to buy raspberries. Now the blackberries are ripening and Charabelle Holden picked some on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller have returned home from Alabama, where they visited their son and family.

Don't forget the Musical Supper, Program and Dance to be held at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills on Aug. 22 -- $5 for adults and $2.50 for children gives you a good supper, followed by entertainment, and then dancing until 10 p.m. Supper starts at 5:30 p.m., so come have an enjoyable evening. Proceeds will benefit Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange on Aug. 19, with more of that good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. Talk about toe-tapping music, this is the real thing and you'll be glad you attended to enjoy it.

N. WATERFORD CONCERT

Gospel singer and recording artist Laurie Meserve will appear in concert at North Waterford Congregational Church on Wednesday, Aug. 23, at 7 p.m. The church is located on Route 35 across from Tut's Store in North Waterford. A free-will offering will be taken to benefit the Building Fund. For more information, call 583-2598.

WHITMAN MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Whitman Memorial Library, Bryant Pond, will have a flea market and book sale on Aug. 24, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Please furnish your own table. There will be no charge for space, but a donation would be appreciated.

TAKING WING
Local youngsters were treated to a free flight over Bethel last week, compliments of Bethel Air Service. Co-owner Dan Bilodeau said the rides were offered because many families can't afford the relative luxury of an airplane flight. Here, pilot Ed Hemmy stands next to Jordan Walker, 10, and Molly and Katlyn Keane, ages 3 and 4, before takeoff.
